FORMER JACKSON COUNTAINS DOING WELL IN TEXAS.

Livingston, Texas.
Feb. 29, 1919.

Editor Sentinel:

As I am a native of Jackson county, and have many relatives and friends there, it may be of some interest to them to read a letter from me. I have one brother living in Gainesboro now.

I left Jackson county about 25 years ago, and have lived in several states. Have lived in Texas 10 years, and believe this is the best poor man's country I have ever lived in.

This is a great cotton country. There is 2 cotton gins in the town. They gined over 4000 bales this year. 500 pounds to the bale. Most farmers got from 30 to 35 cents per pound for their cotton.

A man with a large family, is the man that makes the money raising cotton. When chopping and picking time comes there is a job for every member of the family. It makes no difference how small they are, they can pick cotton. Every little bit helps. The beauty of it all is, a man that rents land can get everything furnished, such as tools and teams, and his teams fed and gets half he makes. If a man wants to furnish his own tools he only pays a third of the corn and fourth of the cotton, so you see that beats paying half and furnishing your own tools and teams. Besides this country is level, and one man can raise more cotton than he can gather.

There are several families living in this county from Jackson county.

Don Moore lives near Livingston. He owns a good farm and is doing well. He is a son of Newt Moore.

Eliza Carlisle is another Jackson county man, here, he is well known. He owns a good farm and is well fixed.

Vesper Moss, son of O. S. Moss of Sugar creek, owns a good farm here in Polk county, and he is doing well.

Luke Gore lives here and owns land, and is getting along fine. He is a son of Bill Gore, who was raised on Roaring River.

Grundy Denton is another Jackson county man. He owns a fine farm and is doing well. so you see there is several Jackson county people here and they are here to stay.

There is good schools here, 9 months free school.

I am not farming myself, as I have said, a man with the large family is the one to raise cotton, and I only have one child, a boy 14 years old. I keep him in school all the time. I would rather sell goods to the farmers and let him raise the cotton. I own my own home here in town am getting along all O. K.

I am always glad to get the Jackson county paper. I read every ad and everything from start to finish.

While I have been away from Jackson county many years, I still call it home, and I always come back to see my parents every 5 years, and will continue to come so long as they live.

I don't think I could ever live in that country any more, but I am always glad for the time to come when I can come to see my relatives and friends in dear old Jackson county.

Respt.

$340,000 APPROPRIATED FOR UPPER CUMBERLAND RIVER.

The following letter from Cordell Hull, relative to the appropriation of $340,000 for the upper Cumberland river, will be good news to the citizens of Jackson county.

Washington, D. C.
March 9, 1919

Mr. B. L. Quarles,
Gainesboro, Tenn.

Dear Byrd:-

You may have noticed in the paper that the provision for the improvement of the upper Cumberland has finally become a law. The amount of $340,000 is authorized with which to purchase the ten lock sites on the upper river and to proceed with work on lock 8 above West Point.

This has been along and awfully hard fight. I hope to see you and others along the river in person very soon, when we can discuss all phases of the situation, present and prospective.

With best wishes,
Very truly
Cordell Hull.

MAILS TO FRANCE ON TIME

Washington, D. C.—Rapid improvement in the transmission of mails to and from France is indicated by a report received in Washington from General Pershing. He says mail are reaching the Expeditionary Force with satisfactory speed and regularity. A letter posted in San Francisco arrived in Treves Germany fifteen days later. "This is regarded as record mail service," General Pershing says.

DEAD FIGHTERS, EFFECTS.

Washington, D. C.—Provision has been made by the War Department for the return to this county of all personal effects of officers and soldiers who lost their lives aboard, and for the distribution of these articles among relatives. A "personal effects bureau" has been established at the Port of Embarkation, Hoboken, N. J. for this purpose.

Where Pat Was.—In a small village in Ireland the mother of a soldier met the village priest, who asked her if she had had bad news. "Sure, I have," she said.

"Pat has been killed."
"Oh, I am very sorry," said the priest. "Did you receive word from the War Office?"
"No," she said, "I receive word from himself."
The priest looked perplexed, and said "But how is that?"
"Sure," said she, "here is the letter; read it for yourself."
The letter said, "Dear Mother I am now in the Holly Land."

The War Is Not Over for Harry. Jane Willis—"You look as if you had lost your last friend. What is wrong?"
Marie Gillis—"I've just discovered that Harry is false to me. He wrote me from France that he wasn't even looking at any other girl and I see in the paper that he just been decorated for gallantry."

The Sentinel extends sympathy to the bereaved ones.

It was the youngster's first experience at Sunday school and he sat eagerly watching the superintendent illustrate the lesson on the board. The superintendent drew the path to heaven one straight line—and started the figure of a man on it. Gradually the man became larger, and finally when he arrived at the gate of heaven he could not get in. Whereupon the superintendent turned to his small audience and in a tragic and sorrowful tone said: "You see, he is so puffed up with sin that he cannot enter." "Try him sideways, mister!" called out the youngster.

Shoe repairing and harness mending done on short notice. See Jess Walker, Gainesboro R-1. (adv)
